PRINCETON ALSO IS DEFEATED

Cornell Wins Close Game by Kicking Goal from Its Only Touchdown, While Tigers Fail to Ithacans Waive by One Point.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., October 26.—The University of Pennsylvania football eleven, a Franklin Field this afternoon, tried to avenge the 24 to 6 defeat at the hands of the Carlisle Indians last year and the result was: Indians, 26; Pennsylvania, 6. The Pennsylvanians knew the Indians were strong, but hoping that their own team was possessed of no mean ability, they were confident of victory, and never dreamed of another Waterloo. It was not much Carlisle's great strength that made the game so one-sided as it was Pennsylvania's weakness. The latter played a headless, nervous game, a very poor exhibition of football. The Red and Blue were outplayed in every department of the game. On the other hand, the Red Men played with the precision of a well-adjusted machine, making no mistakes of judgment and very few in the handling of the ball. Twenty-five thousand people saw the game.

Cornell Down Princeton.
ITHACA, N. Y., October 26.—Cornell's victory over Princeton today by a score of 6 to 0 will go down in Cornell's football annals as the most remarkable of their struggles in the history of the Ivy League. The first half, in which neither side scored, was a tactical struggle, with neither team able to break through the other's line. In the second half, however, Cornell, led by its star player, Walter Walcott, broke through Princeton's defense and scored a touchdown. Princeton, however, failed to convert the touchdown into a field goal, and the game ended in a 6 to 0 victory for Cornell.

Tallyho Party.
One of the most remarkable displays of the fine ball game of yesterday was the tallyho party from the Hotel Grant. Large orange chrysanthemums and Virginia flags showed the party in sympathy with and rooting for Virginia. The crowd cheered the four-in-hand as it passed down the streets.

TOMAHAWK HUNT CLUB'S MEET ATTENDED BY MANY

Brave Array of Riders Enjoy Music of American Hounds and Enjoy Inspiring Chase.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
ORANGE, Va., October 26.—Woodley, the country home of Colonel and Mrs. W. W. Sanford, was the Mecca of the Tomahawk Hunt Club, Saturday afternoon, when thirteen superbly mounted riders greeted the master, Mr. Wallace Sanford, for the second hunt of the season. The ten couples of American hounds made the welkin ring over this fine estate, then into the farms of Bragg, Scott, Mustoe, Hutcherson, and back into the Woodley estate, winding up in front of the house on the spacious lawn, where the bright coats of the riders made a pretty scene, when they mingled amongst the onlookers, who had viewed the hunt from points of vantage.

Those Participating.
Those riding were Wallace Sanford, master, on Hykum; August Wambler, first whip, on Gray Eagle; Dr. Harris, second whip, on the way, got a nasty cropper into a dry ditch, when his mount, Roy Roy, shied, but was unhurt; Miss Ellie Hanford, on Hunter; Miss Woodruff, on Sable; E. H. DeJarnette, Jr., on The Roman; Green Shackelford, on Raleigh; Thomas Allison, on Chestnut Burr; Mr. Smith, on Lady Norwood; H. O. Lyne, on Codex; Virgilus Shackelford, on Domino; Edwin Warren, on Corn-Cob; George S. Shackelford, on Flint; Master Warren, on Trilby.

This country is unexcelled for cross-country riding, the footing being excellent, being mostly all old sod and over an undulating territory at the base of the Shenandoah Mountains, which gives a variety of jumps over ditches, fences and small creeks, which not only test the quality of the mount, but is the developer of the true hunter, who hesitates at nothing.

Sing Praise of Native Hound.
A word in passing is not inappropriate as to the merits and demerits of the American hound, with its English cousin, and while the writer is frank to admit that the English hound can be more easily managed and packs better, yet when it comes to running and the music of the pack, the American hound sounds like a full orchestra up against the small boy with tin-horn. Therefore, the glories of the chase are thus increased twofold in favor of the American hound, who with flute-like note and mellow baritone, guides the huntman to his quarry through wooded sections, whereas, if one is not up with the English hound when timber is met, he is out and lost.

The American hound is good enough for me.

Take back the brute from far across the sea. For though he runs up in a pack, True music he does lack; So America's hound is good enough for me.

Those attending the breakfast besides the riders already mentioned, were: Mrs. W. S. Grimes, Mrs. Wister Johnson, Mrs. W. C. Williams, Mrs. W. W. Sanford, Mrs. Dr. George Scott, Misses Eugenia Grimes, Mabel and Willie Moore, Adra Woodruff, Bettie Woodruff, Catherine Newman, Ethel, Eugenia and Alice Wambler, Banks, W. Grimes, George Marshall, Lee Macdon, W. C. Graham, Dr. Vivian Slaughter and T. S. Ricketts.

It is the universal opinion of those interested in sports of all kinds that the sporting section of The Times-Dispatch is equalled by few and surpassed by none, and the shooting fraternity hope it may continue to receive the support it deserves."—Member Richmond Gun Club.

Lynchburg High School Eleven Is Beaten by Magic City Lads.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

LYNCHBURG, Va., October 26.—The Roanoke High School defeated the local High School here today in a well-played game of football, by the score of 6 to 0.

The touchdown was the result of better punting on the part of the visitors, and the plunging of their line, and was followed by a goal. This was the first line-up of the locals, and they made a splendid showing, considering that fact.

Modelled After the Famous Grand National at Liverpool, Jumps, However, Foot Smaller.

NEW YORK, October 26.—Great interest is felt in the third annual United Hunts meeting, which began at Queens, L. I. (Belmont Park terminal), yesterday, and will be resumed Wednesday, October 30th, and Saturday, November 2d. The course is a new one, considered the best in this country, with a course, new stand, etc. There will be three steeplechases, two hurdle races and a flat race each day. The great United Hunts chase and a handicap at three and a half miles are the features of the last day's card. Arrangements have been made for the handsome turf and field clubhouse to be available for members of the United Hunts Association and their guests. Perry Belmont is the president; H. S. Page, the well-known gentleman rider, is vice-president; John R. Townsend, master of the Orange County Hunt, is treasurer, and the entire list of members represents those prominent in sporting and social circles.

Now finished, the new steeplechase course, across the road from Belmont Park, will be used at the meeting. It has a suitable grandstand, paddock, etc., and without undue praise is the handsomest, the most sporting, most natural and the very best steeplechase course ever seen in this country. It shows what can be done when practical men are given a free hand. It is modeled on the lines of the famous grand national course of England. The fences are a foot smaller all around, both in height and as regards width at the water jumps and the ditches. The latter, however, are deep and well cut, calculated to be as near natural country as possible, and this point has been adhered to all along the line.

There are no glaring white rails at Liverpool or hedges, but rails of natural barked wood, such as a farmer would use. The water jump is properly ditched, not left with a shoveling bank of concrete to try a horse's back tendon, but the landing slide is straight down, as a ditch should be, lined with turf, as a ditch is naturally, and must be jumped, not splashed over. The going is diversified—uphill on the level and slightly down grade; it takes one between clumps of trees, with light and shade decking the obstacles when the sun shines; one minute there is open country straight ahead, then wood, then farm buildings, as in the open, and all around the galloping is good, with no "bogs" or bad spots, naturally drained, that first great requisite of a cross-country course.

VIRGINIANS WIN GREAT CONTEST WITH CAROLINA

Sturdy Team From Old North State Gave Victors a Royal Battle.

ONE TOUCHDOWN AND FIELD GOAL

These Enable Orange and Blue to Win, Carolina Scoring Only Field Goal—First Half Indecisive and All Scoring in Second Period.

"If the game had turned out differently I would have had a statement to make, but in view of the result I am well satisfied with the fight the North Carolina boys put up."—Statement by Dr. Lamson, University of North Carolina coach, to The Times-Dispatch.

"With the exception of a few instances I am satisfied with the play of the team. The backfield did not play up to expectations, not by 50 per cent, but I am well satisfied with the work of the line. We will begin Monday to drill for George-town game, which is the next hard game on our schedule."—Coach E. Hammond Johnson, of D. University of Virginia team.

In the view of 5,000 loyal and wildly enthusiastic adherents of the rival teams, the University of Virginia football team defeated the University of North Carolina eleven on Broad Street field yesterday afternoon by a score of 9 to 4 in one of the most brilliant and stubbornly contested games ever seen in this city. Not since the 12-11 victory of Virginia on the same field in 1904 have the two teams been so well matched. Two thirty-minute periods of play were had, and every minute was full of action and stirring struggle that made the blood of the spectators tingle with excitement.

Never have two more evenly matched elevens played in this city. At the end of the first half neither team had scored, though Virginia had forced the ball to Carolina's one-yard line, and even within a foot of the coveted line. The wearers of the Blue and White made a brilliant stand under their own goal posts, and successfully resisted Virginia's desperate onslaughts, the line holding like a thing of steel in the crisis. Though it had crumbled occasionally in midfield, the Carolinians were impregnable under the shadow of their own goal posts.

Carolina First to Score.
The Carolinians were the first to score, landing a drop kick for goal a few minutes after the second half opened and from the fifteen-yard line. Thomas dropped the goal, and the south stands were a volcano of light blue and white for several moments, while the banners of navy blue and orange drooped from their staffs and silence hovered over the Virginia stands. Hardly more than five minutes later, however, conditions were reversed, and Carolina was dumb, while an eruption of orange and blue converted the north stand into a riot of color and enthusiasm. Captain Neff had been pushed, pulled, dragged, ground and rolled over the line for the one foot that spelled touchdown. Caro-
